REPORT

OF THE

AUDITOR GENERAL ON THE FINANCES.

Auditor General's Department,
Harrisburg, December 28, 1909.

Honorable Edwin S. Stuart, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Sir: In compliance with the provisions of section 26, act of May 1, 1876, entitled "An act to carry out the provisions of section 12, article 3, of the Constitution, in relation to the public printing and binding, and the supply of paper therefor," I have the honor to transmit herewith the annual report of this Department on the finances of the Commonwealth, for the fiscal year ending the 30th day of November, A. D. 1909.

In my letter of January 29, 1909, with which I transmitted to you my report for the year ending November 30, 1908, I called attention to the urgent need of legislation fixing the number and salaries of the employees of this Department. In pursuance of my intention as expressed in that letter, I caused to be presented to the Legislature of 1909 a bill which I believe would have remedied the very deplorable condition which now exists. Although the bill so presented did not become a law, my convictions upon this subject are unaltered, and I again urge remedial legislation that will give the specific sanction of law to the employment of every clerk necessary to the work of the Department, and which will, at the same time, fix the salaries of such employees at figures which, in the light of changed conditions in the cost of living, will insure good service.

I am pleased to observe that the comments made in my last report, with reference to the inadequacy of the salary of the Auditor General, are no longer in order, the last Legislature having increased the salary sufficiently to be consonant with the duties and responsibilities of the office. The law will take effect on the coming into office of my successor.

Further improvement has been made in the method of auditing, and new rules have been established as necessity dictated. The co-operation of other State officers, who have almost invariably accepted innovations in methods in the spirit in which they have been intended, has made it possible to establish and put into facile operation an auditing system which, I believe, safeguards the interests of the Commonwealth without being unnecessarily cumbersome in its workings or annoying to those affected. I may add, however, without going into details at this time, that, notwithstanding methods established under this administration, and notwithstanding some remedial legislation that was passed at my suggestion by the last Legislature, inconsistencies in methods of payment still exist which make general legislation on the subject desirable.

The new bookkeeping system mentioned in my letter of January 29, 1909, has been in operation since the beginning of the present appropriation year, and has been found to be eminently satisfactory. Its efficiency has been increased through the medium of and act of the Legislature prepared in this office, under the authority of which the Auditor General's warrant is transmitted to the State Treasurer direct, instead of being sent to the person to whom the money is due and thereafter treated as a negotiable instrument. The State Treasurer pays by check or otherwise immediately upon receipt of the warrant, which is then returned from the Treasury to this Department. This makes possible the keeping of the books of this Department and of the Treasury in daily balance, and avoids the confusion bound to arise from outstanding unpaid warrants which were formerly allowed to follow the course of other negotiable instruments through the banks, occasioning inconvenience in bookkeeping.

Tabulation of the cost of collecting mercantile license taxes for the year 1908 shows a still further reduction in the cost of collection, and an increase in the tax collected, over former years. It is a simple act of justice to state that this highly satisfactory condition with reference to this tax is largely due to the economical and efficient administration of the mercantile tax laws by the Board of Mercantile Appraisers of the County of Philadelphia, from which county a large proportion of the entire tax is derived.

In my letter above referred to I called your attention to the matter of delinquent corporation taxes and advised you of the steps I had taken and the further steps which I contemplated, with a view to improving conditions in this respect. As one of the means intended to bring about this improvement, I caused to be introduced in the Legislature a bill authorizing the appointment of special agents to examine into the condition of delinquent corporations believed to be defunct. The bill failed of passage, but had it become a law, the Department would soon have been able to mark from its books the names of a very large number of corporations which are apparently delinquent, but which, if the facts in each case could be definitely known, would undoubtedly be found to be out of existence, and from whom no tax could be collected for want of assets. I again urge the wisdom of such legislation, as the Department is hampered in its efforts to collect delinquent taxes by the fact that in many cases we are compelled to delay suit until we are able to ascertain, by cumbersome and uncertain methods, whether the corporation is or is not in existence.

A bill passed by the Legislature, prepared in this Department, removed the previously existing doubt as to the right of the Commonwealth to issue scire facias on tax liens entered in the various counties, and has been of very material aid in the work of collecting delinquent taxes.

The Department also presented to the Legislature a bill creating a corporation tax lien record in the office of the Auditor General, and providing that the entering of a tax settlement therein should be a complete assertion and public notice of the prior lien of the Commonwealth as created by various acts of Assembly now in force. Under the law as it now exists the Commonwealth, in order to establish its priority of lien for taxes, must file a copy of the settlement in the court of common pleas of the county in which the property of the corporation is located. As thousands of such settlements are made every year, it is practically an impossibility to do this, and as a result the Commonwealth sometimes fails in its attempt to collect taxes due from insolvent corporations. The bill referred to failed to become a law, but such a law as the one proposed would work no hardship, as a copy of the record could be furnished upon application to any person dealing with the corporation, and the Commonwealth would be practically certain of the collection of its taxes as assessed. I advise the enactment into law by the next Legislature of a similar bill.

The delinquent corporation bureau, orgaized by me at the beginning of the year 1909, has fully justified its creation. As shown more in detail in this report, there has been collected during the year over $2,000,000.00 of delinquent corporation taxes. Of this sum about one-half was collected through the efforts of the delinquent corporation bureau, and the remainder in either the domestic or foreign corporation bureaus of the Department. On December 31, 1909, there was still due from delinquent domestic corporations, as nearly as could be ascertained under the rapidly changing conditions, the sum of $1,050,765.74. Of this amount $653,093.55 was in the hands of attorneys for collection. The remainder will be certified to attorneys for collection as soon as the Department can ascertain whether the corporations involved are still in existence and with assets. Of the sum remaining on the books uncollected a very large percentage is charged against corporations which in the end will be found to be, judging from past experience, out of existence. There are also many corporations which still owe reports to the Department. As soon as it can be determined that these corporations are still in existence, taxes will be estimated against them, which action will, of course, add to the amount of delinquent taxes due.

An idea of the magnitude of the work involved in connection with corporations may be gathered from the statement that during the year the Department has been able, by means of correspondence and other unwieldy methods, and without legal machinery or an appropriation for the work, to mark from our records the names of 2,136 defunct corporations. It must be remembered, also, that the figures above quoted apply only to domestic corporations. With regard to foreign corporations, the same general conditions exist, but the amount due from them, although the exact figures are not at this time at hand, is probably about one-fourth of the amount due from domestic corporations. In connection with the fact that a new record has been established in the collection of corporation taxes during the fiscal year just ended, I wish to state that the Department has not departed from good business methods in the desire to attain this goal. The records were not examined with a view to discovering corporations from which large sums could be collected, but a systematic effort has been made to reach every delinquent, the corporation owing $5.00 as well as the corporation owing $5,000.00. Three reasons may be assigned for the results obtained: (1) systematic effort; (2) insistent collection of penalties and interest according to law; (3) the employment of the law authorizing the issuance of seire facias on tax liens. It may also be added that the effort to enforce payment of back taxes, accompanied as it has been by the imposition of legal penalties and the collection of twelve per cent. interest, has resulted in producing promptness on the part of corporations in filing their reports and making payment thereunder, this promptness very materially aiding the Department in bringing the revenues of the Commonwealth to the unprecedented figure of $29,101,183.70 for the year 1909. I regard the result as being more gratifying when it is considered that the corporation taxes collected during the fiscal year just ended were the result of valuations fixed for 1908, before the returning wave of prosperity had appreciably affected corporation stock values.

As stated in my letter of January, 1909, I believe the system prevailing in the State in its broadest view is good, and think that any changes of the present system should be made with great caution. If general changes are contemplated, they should be made after the whole subject-matter has been considered and digested by those peculiarly fitted for the work, both temperamentally and by experience and training. The revenue acts have been moulded into a very satisfactory system by numerous decisions of the courts, and if the breaches made by some other court decisions were mended by legislative enactment we should then have probably a better body of revenue laws than can be found in any other State. But there is, I am led to believe, no little discontent among real estate owners, who claim that they bear an unfair proportion of the burdens of taxation. Real estate is not taxed for State purposes, except in so far as it enters into the valuation of the capital stock of the corporations owning it. It is claimed, however, that the practical limitation of the right of taxation for local purposes to real property works an injustice to holders of that class of property, and in my opinion this claim should receive attention in connection with the demands for new revenue for State purposes. Under the present system of taxation the State's revenues can hardly be expected to reach a much greater volume for some years to come. As from the nature of things it is apparent that the disbursements of the State will not grow less, new fields of taxation must presently be sought. This should not be difficult. In my letter of transmittal of last year's report I suggested that a tax might be levied against manufacturing corporations, which are now exempt. I repeat the suggestion. I also wish to call attention to the fact that under rulings of the Supreme Court certain corporations are exempt from taxation because they are classed as manufacturing corporations, which are natural competitors with corporations paying a 5 mill tax on capital stock, a 4 mill tax on bonded indebtedness and an 8 mill tax on gross receipts. There are greater discrepancies in the burdens of taxation borne by different classes of corporations than the discrepancy existing between corporations as a class and real property. These glaring inequalities might easily be corrected by legislation, and new subjects of taxation might also be found where the burden would fall lightly, as pointed out in my letter of January, 1909. I favor this kind of legislation for the raising of increased revenue rather than any drastic revision that would institute a new system, upset decisions, and create confusion and uncertainty.

Since my last report was transmitted another important factor has been interjected into the consideration of this subject of our system of corporate taxation by the passage of the Federal corporation tax law. I am opposed to this law and consider its enactment an encroachment upon a field of taxation which should have been reserved to the states; moreover, I think the exaction of taxes and the intricate detailed reports required of corporations by the Federal law are burdensome and vexatious. And the annoyance is increased and the confusion is worse confounded by the fact that the tax year and the year for which the reports of the State and general government are required are not identical. The reports are required to be made for different dates and the tax years are not the same. The states should be allowed the right of taxing corporations to the exclusion of the general government, and I should hesitate to suggest an increase of millage against those corporations, which now pay two-thirds of the State's revenue, with the added burden of the Federal tax.

Under the provisions of an act of Assembly passed on April 21, 1858, and various subsequent acts, corporations are required to make annual reports to this Department concerning their capital stock, the data to be furnished as of the first Monday of November of each year. For more than fifty years this act has been in effect. Whatever reasons may have existed at the time of its enactment requiring the making of a report on that unusual date have so far as I am able to discover, long since passed, and constant complaint is made to this Department touching this feature of the reports. Very few, if any, corporations end their fiscal year on the first Monday of November, and correct figures are not available for use in the report for this reason. The marshalling of the necessary data for the making of a correct report as of that date is an unnecessary annoyance to the corporation reporting, and any unnecessary annoyance is an injustice. I would recommend the passage of an act changing the time to which the report should be made to December 31st of each year, and allowing corporations until March 1st following in which to compile and file their reports on capital stock, as well as reports on indebtedness.

I feel constrained to call attention again to the imperfect administration of the laws intended to reach and tax personal property in form of trust funds held by banks, trust companies and savings institutions, that is escaping taxation altogether. And to the further fact, patent to all citizens who have given a moment's reflection to the subject, that great sums of personal property, other than those suggested, are escaping taxation contrary to law. I think it safe to assert that the aggregate amount of personal property escaping taxation contrary to law is greater than the total sum now being taxed. And I see no logical or practical reason why personal property in the form of bank deposits should not and could not be taxed as other personal property is taxed.

But may not the part of wisdom suggest the accomplishment of the same results by retrenchment in our disbursements as well as by an increase of revenues? Certainly there is no public desire to falter in the pursuit of those great policies of public improvement which have been inaugurated by the State during recent years. But retrenchment in the State's expenses does not necessarily mean any halt in these public activities. In my opinion the greatest mistake in the policy of the State Government is that which consists in the appropriation of vast sums of public moneys to private charitable and eleemosynary institutions. I mean private in the sense that they are not purely State institutions and subject to State control. Experience in this Department, which gives, I believe, the best vantage point for observing the workings of State institutions of any to be found in the State Government, unless it be the State Board of Charities, has convinced me that the institutions owned and controlled by the State are, almost without exception, managed economically and upon business principles. But I regret to state that I cannot speak in commendation of the management of some institutions receiving State aid but which are under private management. The granting of appropriations to private charities is, in my opinion, very unwise. Millions of dollars have gone and are going into the hands of private corporations which the State might have used in building institutions that would be absolutely under its control, or in advancing those great undertakings to which it is committed. Steps should be taken to curb this evil. Institutions struggle for large appropriations, and each endeavors to absorb all that is given it. In my opinion no money should be given to private institutions for buildings or improvements; and appropriations for maintenance should be made only in accordance with the recommendations of the State Board of Charities. If there is no constitutional objection to the plan, it might be well for the Legislature to adopt a system of merely naming the institution that should receive aid, appropriating one sum, and authorizing the State Board of Charities to distribute the appropriation, for maintenance only, among the various institutions named according to their several needs.

I desire particularly to say that legislation is needed upon the subject of the indigent insane. I do not hesitate to say that the State is annually defrauded of thousands of dollars paid for the support of patients who are not really indigent. Under the law the county is liable for the support of an indigent insane person in a State hospital in the sum of $1.75 per week, and the State assumes the burden of the cost of support over and above that sum, limiting its liability, however, to $2.50 per week. Overseers of the poor of the various counties, of course, attempt to conserve the county's interests first, and when an order of relief is issued they endeavor to secure a bond from the guardian or relatives of the patient that will insure the reimbursement of the county for the $1.75 which it is liable to pay. The patient then costs the county nothing, but the State's burden is unaltered. I am certain that in very many of these cases the patient is not indigent, but the only way in which the Commonwealth can escape the unjust burden is to employ legal means to shift the charge to the estate of the patient or to those legally liable for his support. This would take a large appropriation for the employment of legal services in the various counties, and the Legislature at its last session refused to sanction such proposed action by this Department. I am strongly of the opinion that a systematic campaign to correct this evil should be begun. It would be well not only to investigate cases now existing, but also to provide by legislation that all moneys paid to counties by the estates or relatives of insane persons committed to State hospitals as indigent, be divided between the State and the county in proportion to the amount which each is required by law to pay for the support of such patients. This would not only be an eminently fair division, but would probably result in a diminution of the numbers committed as indigent insane. During the past few months I have been endeavoring to force such a division, but find that I have not the law to sustain me.

Three years of service as an ex-officio member of various working boards discharging important functions of the State Government, such as the Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings, has borne in upon my mind, with great force, the conviction that neither the Governor, the Auditor General, nor the State Treasurer, should be required to discharge the duties imposed upon the Board. Taken in the aggregate, the duties of the various boards on which the Auditor General sits are quite as arduous and responsible as those of the office for which he is elected. The growth of the State Government and the multiplying of its activities has made the functions of many of these boards, but especially of the one mentioned, impossible of performance, in some matters, except in a purely perfunctory manner. For instance, at one and the same time within the last year the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings listened monthly to reports of superintendents of construction made to said Board on the condition of no less than eight great public buildings in course of construction belonging to the State, and reports from engineers in charge of no less than three State bridges also in course of construction. In a sense, the Board was responsible for this work, and yet the members were neither able, nor were they expected, to give physical supervision to the work. This situation is neither good business on the part of the State nor is it fair to those composing the Board, who were selected by the people, primarily, for the discharge of duties in no way related to such work in the popular mind.

These conditions should be remedied. I have no definite plan for a remedy, but offer the following tentative suggestions. A board consisting of three or five persons might be created by law to take over the duties of various boards, including the Board of Public Grounds and Buildings, the Board of Military Affairs, the Board of Revenue Commissioners, the Board of Sinking Fund Commissioners, and perhaps others. In addition to these duties, the proposed Board might be clothed with supervision of all building operations carried on by the State, and the supply of all commodities used in large quantities for the maintenance of State institutions. It seems a simple business proposition to buy coal, flour, salt, etc., by the train load; coffee, sugar and other staple provisions, in the same manner, rather than to make as many separate contracts as there are State institutions requiring such supplies. There would be advantages in such a plan even aside from the matter of economy, and economy is bound to be the result under such a plan, even though every State institution is now conducted without the slightest suspicion of speculation. One of the advantages in addition to that of economy would be uniformity of cost. To illustrate this point, I have before me a schedule which shows that in purely State institutions of exactly the same character, to wit, hospitals for the insane, men's clothes vary in cost by the suit from $3.30 to $11.00; men's underclothes by the suit vary in cost from 63 cents per suit to $1.00; dressed beef by the pound varies from six and one-third cents to 16 cents. Without any allegation of mismanagement in these institutions, these figures show at least a great diversity of judgment about what a suit of clothes should cost, and the conclusion is inevitable that, if a suit of clothes costing $3.30 is good enough a suit costing $11.00 is too good. And if a suit of clothes costing $11.00 is not too good, then a suit of clothes costing $3.30 is not good enough. By aggregate purchases honest mismanagement might be obviated as well as dishonest management and much money saved by this means. Such a proposed board, paid a salary large enough to command first class men, one of whom might be a lawyer and one an engineer, assisted by a first class man for a steward and another for a secretary, would find their time constantly employed in some of the most important duties connected with the State Government. If the personnel of the Board consisted of the highest grade of men which could be selected for a salary commensurate with the work, immense sums might, and I believe would be, saved to the State; and State officers, elected by the people for the discharge of specific duties, could devote themselves to the business of their office and not be required to spend no inconsiderable portion of their time, thought and energies, to the discharge of duties which, from their nature, are largely either technical or professional and for which said officers have no specific qualifications.

The report is arranged in the following order, to wit:

I. Statement showing the receipts at the Treasury and the sources from which they are derived.

II. Statement showing the payments at the Treasury and the purposes for which they were made.

III. Statement showing the monthly receipts at the Treasury, their sources and objects.

IV. Statement showing the monthly payments at the Treasury, their sources and objects.

V. Statement showing the assessment of State tax on personal property in the counties of the Commonwealth.

VI. Statement showing the several public loans of the Commonwealth, when authorized, for what purposes, amount of loan, rate of interest, when reimbursable, dates of maturity, amount outstanding and when the interest ceased.

VII. Statement relative to the outstanding certificates issued in payment of interest on the Funded Debt due in 1842, 1843 and 1844.

VIII. Statement relative to the outstanding issues and re-issues of relief notes made by sundry banks, in pursuance of the act of Assembly of May 4, 1841, and April 10, 1849.

IX. Statement relative to the outstanding certificates issued to domestic creditors.

X. Statement of the amount of stock held by the Commonwealth in divers incorporated companies.

XI. Statement showing the funded and unfunded debt of the Commonwealth on the first day of December, 1909.

XII. Statement showing receipts from delinquent corporations and other sources for the year ending November 30, 1909.

XIII. Appendix consisting of statements showing various items of receipts and disbursements from the date of the passage of the various acts imposing taxes and providing for the expenditures.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT KENNEDY YOUNG,
Auditor General.

Revenue of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
